Copyright

Today's copyright law issues have expanded well beyond its classical roots in literary works, spanning from electronic books to blogs and social media sites to the reproduction and re-use of online materials to the misappropriation of data. The march of technology has drastically increased the ease and speed of copying and distributing protected materials, while at the same time enlarging the scope of what is protectable in the first place—which now includes computer software, databases, and the design of semiconductor chips.

For over fifty years, the lawyers at Amster, Rothstein & Ebenstein LLP have represented a wide array of clients seeking to ensure that their valuable intellectual property is amply protected. Whether you want to protect your expression, assert “fair use,” or challenge a potential infringer, you can rely on our expertise to help you navigate the critical issues to your advantage.

We can help you in developing a strong portfolio of copyrighted assets, as well as vigorously enforcing your rights when others try to misappropriate or infringe them. With over forty lawyers who focus on all facets of intellectual property law, our firm has more specialized intellectual property law attorneys than most general practice firms ten times our size. We have worked with clients in industries as diverse as fashion and apparel, heavy manufacturing, printing, toys, dental products, and information gathering and disseminating. Our work with clients who publish online has covered data, articles, and audio and video content.

We develop copyright strategies to maximize protection and to capitalize on your storehouse of intellectual assets. Equally important, we work with you to actively identify possible vulnerabilities before your competition can. We can analyze your copyrighted material to make sure each of your works receives the strongest protection available, while at the same time minimizing infringement risks to help you avoid violating other firms' intellectual property.

Together, we can develop and implement a comprehensive intellectual property portfolio to maximize your competitive power.
