Amit R. Parikh is a litigator with experience in patents, trademarks, copyrights, and unfair competition cases. Trained in computer & systems engineering, he is able to focus on various technologies ranging from consumer electronics to computer software and health care products.

As a member of ARE litigation teams, Mr. Parikh conducts research, advises clients, and drafts various motions related to all phases of a civil case. He also studies claims, conducts prior art searches, and prepares opinion analyses relating to the novelty of new technologies or to the merits of third-party assertions. In addition, he is a registered patent attorney who helps prepare Requests for Reexamination to the US Patent and Trademark Office. He also plays a key role in obtaining trademark registration for clients by drafting legal briefs to overcome office actions.

Mr. Parikh joined Amster, Rothstein & Ebenstein LLP as a Summer Associate in 2011 and returned to the firm in as an Associate in 2012. In law school, he served as the business editor of the Fordham Intellectual Property, Media & Entertainment Law Journal.

Prior to joining ARE, Mr. Parikh was in the Technology Leadership Program at Citigroup working on Sarbanes-Oxley compliance, business process redesign, client service initiatives and software development. As a legal intern for the New York Department of Environmental Conservation, he drafted complaints and consent orders and monitored corrective action plans for remediating petroleum and chemical spills.
